QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

GERMAN FLEET LEAVES BASE TO FIGHT THE ENEMY

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLADDER TROUBLES YOU

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms urea well, which causes the kidneys, they become overworked from the strange, sharp and full to filter the waste and toxins from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all the urinary, head, neck, liver, glands, nervousness, dizziness, palpitations and primary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The kidneys are a dull ache in the kidney, a constant backache or if the urine is cloudy, a strong, full of sediment, a sensation of passing or attended by a sensation of giddiness, stop eating meat and get those four ounces of Jell Salts from your pharmacist, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will feel fine. This famous salts is made from the soil of grapes and lemon trees, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to flush and strengthen the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jell Salts is inexpensive and cannot Injure, makes a delightful aperitif.

It's water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

TURKS HOLD SUBJECTS

OF ENEMY UNTIL ALL

OWN PEOPLE SAFE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Until definite guarantees are given by Russia, England and France for the protection of Turkish subjects the Ottomans in Europe will hold practically all the subjects of the Central Entente powers within their territory.

This was revealed in a cablegram from American Ambassador Monroe to the State Department. "Since from Constantinople came last Sunday, Ambassador, telegram 1,258, no assurance from the British ambassador that Turks or Englishmen will be permitted to leave if they desire. The English ambassador, however, said the American ambassador had no power to order the British ambassador to leave the country.

REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE

PREDICTED BY CUMMINS

DES MOINES, Nov. 3.—I believe when the returns are all in it will be seen that the Democratic administration has been condemned by the Republican people," was the comment of Senator Albert Albert R. Cummins today. He expressed the belief that his own election was assured by at least 100,000 votes.

Speaking, the Republican was well along in its reconstruction.

Persian dominated by Russian and Great Britain has shown through popular-sentiment that the displaced French Americans Minister, who had been French, nothing but an ass, the man candidate at Tabriz, is Persian. The country along with other Persian subjects was not included in the exchange by America and Great Britain, so as to dislodge the Persian satraps from them, out of the country.

RESIGNATION OF DAVID T. DAY

The report on the production of petroleum in 1912, just issued by the United States geological survey, is the last one which will bear the name of David T. Day as author. Dr. Day having resigned from the survey to engage in private practice. It is expected, however, that he will contribute to next year's report a short chapter on the general petroleum industry.

The work of gathering the statistics on petroleum and compiling this government report has now been placed in full charge of John D. Northrop, a geologist of the survey who has become familiar with the general trend of the petroleum industry by many years' experience in geologic work in the oil fields of the United States.

During the seven years that Dr. Day has been the author of this important annual report of the geological survey his statistical contributions have recorded an enormous increase of the petroleum industry. In 1907 the output was 45,524,228 barrels and Oklahoma was the largest producer, with a record of 45,524,228 barrels. In 1913 California was the largest producer, with a record-breaking output of 97,582,625 barrels, and the total for the United States was 248,466,230 barrels.

REPUBLICANS SWEEP THE COUNTRY; WHITMAN IS ELECTED IN NEW YORK

to succeed Senator Stephen, Republican, from Wisconsin.

The triumph of four Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, Republican, over Frank T. Gillett for representative in the Eighteenth Illinois district also seemed certain. Other Illinois Republicans who were turned out of the house in the last Democratic landslide, who will be returned to congress were William B. McKinley, Charles E. Fuller and John A. Sterling. Republicans also made gains in New York, Oscar W. Swift defeating Representative James H. O'Brien in the Ninth district; Rollin B. Sanford defeating Representative Peter G. Tenevsky; Walter McGee succeeding to the seat of Representative John R. Clancy, while R. L. Haskell, Republican, was elected in the Tenth district.

The defeat of Representative Charles A. Kirby, Democrat, of Indiana by Merrill Moore also marked the general trend of Republican gains throughout the country.

Representative Payne Re-elected.

Sereno E. Payne, Republican, of New York, one of the oldest members of the house in point of service, was re-elected without difficulty.

Election of state officers resulted in new turnovers. In New York Governor Glynn, the Democratic candidate for reelection, was defeated decisively by District Attorney Whitman. Progressive Frederick M. Davenport, Progressive nominee, in support of whose candidacy ex-President Roosevelt devoted most of the campaign, was left far in the rear, his vote being exceeded by that of William Sulzer, who was defeated as governor last year.

In Tennessee, also, a change of party control was indicated. Early returns pointed to the defeat of Gov. Ben W. Hooper, the Republican incumbent, by Thomas Rye, Democrat.

Defeat of woman suffrage in Missouri and North Dakota, and prohibition in Arizona and Ohio was indicated.

In Ohio the prohibition issue was uppermost. In Cleveland and Dayton, the "wets" were victorious by large majorities.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—In 4,081 districts out of 6,661 in the state, the vote for governor stood:

Whitman, $28,336; Glynn, 45,278; Sulzer, $0,640; Davenport, 37,363.

In 2,209 districts out of the total of 6,661 the vote for senator stood:

Wadsworth, 264,607; Gerard, 237,742; Colby, 29,602.

At Republican headquarters it was asserted that their entire state ticket and a majority of their candidates for both houses of the legislature had been elected.

Within two hours after the polls closed, Democrats generally admitted defeat for Governor Glynn.

Wadsworth polled a good vote in Greater New York, approximately two-fifths of the total number of districts, giving Gerard a lead of only about 30,000 over his opponent. At the same time Wadsworth had a 50,000 lead in little less than one-third of the upstate districts.

Other supporters indulged in a celebration at his Broadway headquarters when they heard Glynn had been defeated. The former governor expressed their view thus:

"Without money, without newspaper support and without organization I have elected Whitman, beaten Glynn and Angie Roosevelt look like 30 cents."

ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (Wednesday).—A very close contest for the Illinois senatorship was indicated by returns from yesterday's election received up to 1:30 o'clock this morning. It looked as if the plurality rolled up by Sullivan, Democrat, in Cook county, might be offset, if not exceeded, by Sherman's gains in other counties.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1914.

THE ELECTION

THE time seems to have passed when the results of a Colorado general election can be learned within a few hours after the closing of the polls. One reason is that in each of our general elections there are a number of amendments and initiated and referred measures the checking of which considerably delays the count. Again, the headless ballot makes for slower speed both in casting the vote and counting it. The old form of ballot was easier to vote, especially for people who wanted to vote "straight," but that very fact was largely responsible for its undoing.

Incomplete returns at midnight indicate the election of George A. Carlson, Republican nominee for governor, by a substantial majority. Unquestionably his large vote is due in part to his stand on prohibition, the chief issue of the campaign, especially in contrast to Patterson's outspoken advocacy of the wet cause. But Carlson's victory is not to be attributed to this cause alone. It also shows deep popular disgust with the failures of the Democratic party, and an evident belief that the Republicans can handle the industrial situation better than either of their rivals. Now that they have won, we hope this judgment may be vindicated and that Mr. Carlson will display the patriotism, executive ability and sound common sense without which no governor can expect to solve this difficult problem.

Apparently Colorado has gone dry, and El Paso county has done more than its share in winning the victory. The first fourteen precincts reported last night, of which all but one are in Colorado Springs, show a dry vote almost twice as great as that cast by the wet, which indicates pretty well what the people of the Pikes Peak region think of the danger of killing the tourist business by voting the state dry.

One condition is highly satisfactory: the weather prevailed throughout the state and an exceptionally heavy vote was cast everywhere. In Colorado Springs the total registration was 14,126, an increase of 7% over the registration of two years ago, which indicates a higher total vote than was cast even in the hotly contested presidential election. Whatever the result of an election may be it is always more satisfying if accompanied by a vote large enough to show that the public has displayed real interest, and that it is the decision of a considerable plurality of the electors.

THE CASE OF THE BELGIANS

THE announcement that the Rockefeller Foundation will immediately undertake relief work among the Belgians on a large scale is highly gratifying. With its unlimited means and its splendid organization, reinforced by the shipping facilities of the Standard Oil Company, it can probably accomplish more good and with greater celerity than any other agency.

And in this case haste is imperative. King Albert has personally issued an appeal calling the attention of the world to the dire necessity of the Belgian people. His statements are supplemented by the reports of the Belgian minister at Washington and various investigators both American and European, who are familiar with the case. It is declared that one million dollars a month for seven months must be expended for food to prevent actual starvation.

It is not merely the poorer classes of Belgium that are affected, but the entire population. Rich and poor alike have been stripped of their possessions, driven from their homes and deprived of all and all means of earning a livelihood. Industry is at a standstill, the fields lie waste, the ripening crops unharvested. This is probably not another instance in history where an entire nation has been so completely crushed almost exterminated, as Belgium is today.

And in this terrible crisis what are the German conquerors doing for the victims of their treachery? Nothing. The German government has annexed Belgium and organized a military government. It makes no secret of its intention to retain permanent possession of the unhappy land, and apparently has no doubt as to its ability to do so. But before incorporating Belgium into the German Empire it proposes to "teach the people a lesson."

It burns the villages and towns, lays waste the fields, sacks Louvain, exacts indemnities from each conquered city, and even robs banks right and left like a gang of Jesse James highwaymen. All of which, of course, will instill in the hearts of the Belgian people such profound love and respect for their new War Lord and his campaign of culture as will make them loyal, devoted subjects unto the remotest generation!

Maybe. The war has not ended yet; it has only begun. And if the principle of justice and humanity still survives in European civilization the fight will not end until this monumental crime is avenged. One may think as he will of the right or wrong of the British cause, or the French cause, or the Russian cause, but the cause of Belgium is a thing apart. It is precisely the same thing, between nations, that wanton murder, accompanied by burglary and arson, would be between individuals. The comparison is more exact by assuming the previous existence of a contract whereby the aggressor, big and powerful, had bound himself to respect the rights and property of his pitifully weak neighbor.

All the perfidious explanations of all the German statesmen, scientists, philosophers and other defenders of militarism run wild will never suffice to justify this horrible crime. The amazing thing is that even a German can be found with the effrontery to attempt its extenuation.

IN SOUTH AFRICA

THE Boer revolt in South Africa at first seemed a trivial thing. One Colonel Maritz, a former officer in the Boer army, had started an uprising in northwest Cape Colony, the inspiration of which undoubtedly came from the German possession nearby. The Germans have made no secret of their intention to arouse disaffection in the British colonies wherever possible. They were confident of being able to start a serious revolt in India. Their chances in British South Africa were better, but less fraught with evil consequences.

It is only twelve years since the end of the Boer War, and quite naturally there are still a great many "unreconstructed" Boers in the country. What could be easier than for the agents of the Kaiser in the neighboring colony of German Southwest Africa to persuade these malcontents that by organizing a rebellion in this hour of England's trouble they could regain their independence. It is as though the United States, a few years after the close of the Civil War, had become involved in a life-and-death struggle with a foreign power, whose agents would probably have found it easy to convince a few firebrands in the South that it was their chance to successfully re-establish the Confederacy.

But General Louis Botha, who was the principal commander in the Boer army, and has since been Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, took the field against Maritz, and it appeared that the threatened revolution would prove abortive. But now affairs have taken a more serious turn, with the report that General De Wet and General Beyers, two other noted Boer leaders, have joined the insurgents and are trying to organize a revolt in what was formerly the Orange Free State and the Transvaal. Both of these men are military leaders of marked ability, and presumably with considerable influence over the Boer population. Both have filled positions of honor and trust under the British government since the war ended, but evidently neither of them has become reconciled.

But Botha is undoubtedly the ablest and most influential Boer in South Africa and with him in active command of the British forces there is not much doubt as to the suppression of the outbreak. It is a disconcerting episode for the British government, and may prevent the otherwise certain seizure of German Southwest Africa, but it is not at all likely to have an effect on the contest in Europe.

THE announcement that the Rockefeller Foundation will immediately undertake relief work among the Belgians on a large scale is highly gratifying. With its unlimited means and its splendid organization, reinforced by the shipping facilities of the Standard Oil Company, it can probably accomplish more good and with greater celerity than any other agency.

And in this case haste is imperative. King Albert has personally issued an appeal calling the attention of the world to the dire necessity of the Belgian people. His statements are supplemented by the reports of the Belgian minister at Washington and various investigators both American and European, who are familiar with the case. It is declared that one million dollars a month for seven months must be expended for food to prevent actual starvation.

from New York much as usual, while the great German liners all have been withdrawn. England has uninterrupted communication with every part of her empire, the United States, and the whole of South America. The food that she cannot raise she can buy and deliver without the least difficulty. The Mediterranean is little more than a British lake, with the Suez at one end and Gibraltar at the other.

The power which Britain wields through her fleet is an ever one must now realize, simply enormous. The world would not doubt be willing to sacrifice several army corps for such a fleet as that which has served her enemy so effectively in this great crisis. And the British would be a good one for him. As it is, he is powerless beyond the boundaries of continental Europe. One does not wonder that the English swear by their fleet. In this war it has been not only their protection, but a mighty weapon of offense. If peace were made tomorrow Great Britain would lose nothing and might gain much—all because of her fleet.

AMERICAN SPUNK NEEDED

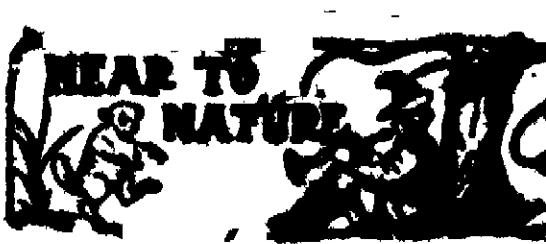

From the New York Times

Have American manufacturers of the class that submitted so long on tariff favors lost completely the spirit of enterprise and independent initiative? This country is rich enough in coal to last it has long depended on Germany for its supplies of dyestuffs and other chemical and drug store products derived from tar. The quantities of these products in the United States when the war suddenly cut off further imports will last but a few months longer. The formulas are known, the products can be made here. Secretary of the Interior Lane, thinking this a first rate opportunity for discussion about starting new American industries, called some 20 of the chief dealers in the coal tar products to Washington for a conference. They came, and the result is summed up in these words:

"It was thought by all the representatives of the manufacturers present that it was not profitable to go into the business, for the reason that a demand could not be secured for a sufficient amount of American dyestuffs with open foreign competition."

Instead of responding manfully to a business opportunity, with the tremendous advantage of foreign competitors cut off or crippled for a long time to come, privileges, exemptions, government protection, and a government outlay in starting coal tar industries were called for. In his message for the downward revision of the tariff in 1913 President Wilson declared that we must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical and enterprising masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world.

Why not show a little real American spunk? Is not this a time for the whetting of American wits and a display of hope and enterprise? Commemorate with the benefits that may now be seized, despite worldwide economic disaster. For the spirit that emphasizes the hopeful side of things must eventually triumph over that which weakly expels the worst.

Cheating Oneself

BY RUTH CAMERON

A young man who had been a great success as a salesman for a big firm decided he would make more money if he set up for himself in the same line. He did so and was a complete failure.

And the reason was that he had not the same assurance and persistence in pushing his own goods that he had shown for his employer. What he could do for others he seemed entirely unable to do for himself.

The average person will work longer and harder for his own interests than for anyone else on earth. But there also seems to be a small class of people so constituted that while they will fight well for other people's interests, they persistently neglect their own.

I know a woman who was left a small estate and who was thoroughly slovenly in her settlement of it. She was a busy teacher, she hated the business details of letting houses and interviewing lawyers, and so she procrastinated until she lost several hundred dollars that she could ill afford to spare. Yet when this woman was made one of the executors of a friend's estate she was wonderfully energetic. She had declared that she could get an hour off in the afternoon to see prospective tenants for her own estate but she managed to find several hours to attend executive meetings and look after business details for her friend.

Again I know a man who is thrifty to the verge of sharpness in all details which he carries on for his employer. Yet he permits himself to be cheated right and left in his own affairs and not least of all by that employer who pays him a wage which is far from commensurate with his work.

Of course—if one must choose between being careless of one's own interests and careless about those of others it may be better to be careless about one's own. But why need it be either one or the other?

Besides there are few of us who can be careless about our interests without affecting a circle of others. The man who is so thrifty about his employer's business does not care so carelessly about his own wife and children. Of course he cannot do as well for them as if he kept some of his thrifty income aside just for his wife.

And the man who does when he tries to sell his own goods has a mother and father to whom his success means much.

Even the lives of people who have no one actually dependent upon them yet react upon others. A man must live on a desert island to be able to say, I can be carefree about my own interests because they affect no one but myself.

Remember this when you have a day or two to yourself.

But if you belong to the class who are afraid to do anything that does not affect the rest of the world, then do not let that stop you.

As I said, there is a great opportunity for the production of gems in America. The miners call attention to the fact that imports of gems last year were valued at $6,661,000.

THE SIEGE OF PARIS

Paris has a great many fine points, to brag about which the Parisians will cheerfully get up hours before breakfast if necessary. But it has one pre-eminence which is not remarked upon with pride even by its most loyal inhabitants. It is the largest city that has ever been taken by siege.

In 1810, Paris had nearly 2,000,000 people and was surrounded by a row of forts 30 miles in circumference. It had also a garrison of 400,000 men, thousands of cannon, enormous quantities of powder, and enough ammunition to last for a year. Therefore,

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY
NOVEMBER 4, 1884

Grover Cleveland was elected president, this being the first Democratic victory in national politics for 24 years. In Colorado, Benjamin H. Eaton, Republican, was elected governor. Alva Adams was the defeated Democratic gubernatorial candidate. The total vote in Colorado Springs was 8,922.

The local politicians of both parties had contributed to a fund to have a telegraph wire run to the Opera house, where returns were received during the evening.

At a meeting held in the vestry of the First Methodist church the Mineral association was reorganized.

How to Keep Well
By Dr. W. A. Evans

Questions pertaining to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, of interest of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper visitations and where a stamped addressed envelope is included. Dr. Evans will make diagnoses or prescribe for disease. No fee for such service can be exacted.

(C. 1914: By Dr. W. A. Evans.)

Mr. Hadcheck of Los Angeles owned a brickyard on a site where the clay was good for brick and less valuable when used for any other purpose or in any other way. Years after the brickyard was located the people began to buy and build homes in its vicinity. In time the district became well-built-up portion of Los Angeles.

In 1909 Los Angeles passed an ordinance prohibiting certain industries in residential districts. The ordinance was so broad that it not only directed the city and designated in a general way the use to be made of each district, but it provided that an industry prohibited in a given district must get out, however long it had been there. Mr. Hadcheck was required to move his brick plant. He went to law. The California supreme court said that he had been rightfully ordered to move. The court held that the city had a right to regulate any business or the use of any property to the end that public health or morale may not be impaired or endangered.

Los Angeles, New York, Grand Rapids and Chicago, among American cities, and Illinois, New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota have followed the lead of the city of Toronto and the provinces of Ontario in legislating for the use of property in such a way as to group together allied industries and to protect residential districts from rapid disintegration.

Some of these laws have been upheld by the courts, some have not. The Michigan court held that the legislature had never given Grand Rapids the right to regulate on that subject. The Illinois supreme court held that the Chicago ordinance was invalid because an act of the legislature which deprives the citizen of his liberty or property rights cannot be sustained under the police power unless the public health, comfort, safety, or welfare demands such an enactment.

A lawyer to whom the California supreme court's opinion was referred said he thought that the courts of other states would not go so far in disturbing existing conditions. The reason for his opinion was this. The California law was founded on the Roman law that most states on the common law have the divine right of private property. The divine right of private and public health came ahead of the divine right of private property. The fundamental basis of the Roman law was the right of the community. The common law founded on the Magna Charta grew out of the protest of the barons against the confiscation of their property by the king for the use of the people, at least the king so alleged.

The rights of the mass are gradually growing under the common law. Town planning, health, activities, insurance—these are given better legal standing every year. At best the legal rights raised by laws to protect residential districts to use certain parts of the city to certain uses and for other related purposes raise difficult questions. Before a law is passed they should be carefully considered.

The object of this article is to make those legislators contemplating such laws that Lawrenceville has prepared a pamphlet on the laws for protecting residential districts which is issued as one of the National Housing Association's publications.

NEWS FROM EVERY CORNER OF THE
WORLD'GORD' DAVIS WINS GAME FOR BARY
TIGERS OVER TERRORS BY DROP KICK
IN LAST 30 SECONDS OF THRILLERTerrors Force Ball to Infants' 1-Yard Line
3 Times but Lack Punch to Put It Over;
O. Richardson Absent From Lineup; H.S.
Plays Sacred Heart Here Saturday

Score another for the tribe of Davis! In the last 30 seconds of the annual games between the Terrors and the college freshmen on Washburn field yesterday Gordon Davis defeated his former teammates by a pretty drop kick from the 35- and line and brought victory to the Infants, at the college, by the score of 3 to 0. Neither team had been able to score throughout the battle although almost every play of the ball that is allowed in the book was on exhibition. The Freshmen had been pushed back to their goal line three times in the first half but the Terrors lost the ball 3 downs on every occasion. In the 4th and half the Freshmen came back and using a brilliant combination of end runs and over-laps forced the ball up the field. Within 15 yards of the opponents goal line the Freshmen suffered a penalty and lost the ball. The Terrors kicked and the ball was brought back. Then with a wild shouting mob of fans crowding the sidelines and with the same limb dangerously near Davis plunked the ball between the posts for three points and victory.

The Terrors were weakened by the absence from the lineup of Orville Richardson, the big halfback who was out of the game because of an attack of the grippe. Thus and again the Brown and White had opportunities to push the ball over and had Richardson been in the lineup probably would have done so. Landenholm took his place in the backfield. But the freshman line held solidly and the ball was lost on downs.

Davis did not get in the lineup for the Infants until the second half owing to an unthinking professor keeping him "after school." His work in handling punts was one of the features of the game.

Forward passes, stolen bases, attempts at placement kicks, shift plays and fake formations made the afternoon's entertainment a pleasant one to watch. The two teams fought bitterly throughout and were fairly evenly matched from a standpoint of weight. There was considerable fumbling but the handling of punts was clean. Also whenever a punt was dangerously near the goal line nobody pulled a "hitch." Saturday's college game taught a lot of these young Aggies considerable about the game.

Freshman Material Good. The game brought out some stars that will be good college material next year. Captain Holman of the freshmen played a star game at halfback, smashing his forbidding trampolines line time and time again for long gains and circling the ends at crucial times.

TIGERS GET LAYOFF; NEW QUARTERBACK?

Protest Boom Falls Flat and
C. C. Will Not Act;
Aggies Next

There was no workout for the Tigers last night. Coach Rothgeb giving his team a layoff in order to allow the Terrors and Freshmen to have the field unpolished. The entire Tiger squad witnessed the game. There are only two days left for practice before the Aggie battle and there will be some stiff drill tonight and tomorrow night.

The Tigers will leave here Friday at 3:30 p. m. in a special car the Denver & Rio Grande road. They leave Denver at 7 p. m. for Fort Collins. Returning they leave Fort Collins at 7 a. m. Sunday.

In all probability either Ross or Davis will be in at quarterback Saturday against the Farmers. Instead of Balch Davis is the more sure in handling punts and whenever the right backfield has been placed in the field he has played safety. Ross has played up on the secondary defense line. Rothgeb has not announced any ROCKY MOUNTAIN. Not 3 - The State Preparatory school football eleven was shattered last night when nine players seven of whom held positions on the line were requested to turn in their football tags and were discharged from the team for cigarette smoking.

Coaches Walter Storie and R. J. Brethell had warned the players at the beginning of the season that smoking would not be tolerated, and any violation of the rule would mean dismissal from the team.

The discharges came last evening when the coaches learned of the violations, and the boys promptly acknowledged their guilt.

C. C. PROFESSOR SUGGESTS A 'THOUGHT SCRIMMAGE'

Points Out That Same Fatal Mistakes
in Judgment Have Occurred
Year After Year

In a letter to the Tiger the college newspaper Prof. G. H. Albrecht points out some facts about the Tiger front half eleven that are to the point. The letter follows:

It is to be hoped that we shall hear no more about Boulder to K. after the recent game. This doesn't invariably run one way. Moreover it has been notorious on Saturday that K. was to the detriment of C. C.

Many times during recent contests with our wily antagonist we have been beaten by brains not skill. Never was that better illustrated than on October 24.

At a time when the university men showed weakening confidence, Walter knew enough to catch Davis punt and not run. The field goal which resulted in but much more than three points. It put home to the Boulder routers and confidence into the players and it took lots of hard smacking and a brilliant run to knock it out of them again.

Walter's clear judgment stands out brilliantly against the Tiger stupidity in pounding the Boulder line when close to the goal and Balh his fatal lapse of reason in trying to catch Nelson's punt within 60 yards and line two Boulder forwards to ready to block his run if he held the ball or made a ton down if he fumbled and no Tiger was near to help.

Had Walter started to run C. C. would not have set the game. Hall Batch gotten out from under that punt the resulting touchback would have given the ball to the Tigers and the score would have been in our favor.

It is easy to criticize after the game. It is said, "Yes, but our team should not make the same losing mistakes every year." They must think straight as well as play and in their games. Perhaps they should substitute some thought scrummage now and then for heavy work on the field.

— C. C. ALBRIGHT

definite changes but all probabilities there will be some.

There will be a long signal drill and scrimmage tonight. And before the team gets in the Aggie game there will be several games. All the members of the team are in fair condition and should be in good shape for the Fort Collins battle. Coach Rothgeb believes that the Aggies are the hardest team to beat remaining on the C. C. schedule especially by the Tigers at Fort Collins. These coming two weeks will be hard ones for the Tigers the game with Denver is already coming next Saturday at Washburn field.

The petition to protest the Boulder game in all probability will remain as it is and the college authorities will not consider protesting to the conference. The sentiment at the college seems to be to let well enough alone. Smith the referee is considered one of the best in the west and his work always has been very fair. However should the Tigers want a post-season game, Colorado university authorities have asked that they will not consider such a proposal.

The officials for the Aggie game will be Smith referee, H. H. of Northwest, line umpire, Clem Rowley, D. T. line
